

Children Find Rocket

A group of children in Farah Province, Afghanistan, found an unexploded rocket on Tuesday. They took it to Forward Operating Base Leimbach. A bomb disposal team destroyed it.

Colonel Franco Federici, of the Italian Army, says the International Security Assistance Force was happy to get the rocket -- but the children should not have picked it up. It could have been dangerous. Instead, anyone who finds something like this should tell an ISAF soldier.

Source: <http://www.defense.gov/news/newsarticle.aspx?id=61055>